5.3 Theme 1: Staffing Arrangements - suitable staff are supplied to meet the assessed needs of service users

Is Care Safe?

The agency's recruitment policy (22 June 2014) outlines the mechanism for ensuring that the appropriate pre-employment checks are completed. The inspector viewed the checklist used; a copy of this documentation is retained at the organisations human resources department. An alphabetical index of all domiciliary care workers supplied was in place. The registered manager could describe the process for ensuring that staff supplied are physically and mentally fit for the purposes of their job role.

The agency had a probationary review procedure (09 February 2015) the manager explained that the agency had an induction programme which consisted of a two week initial induction initial followed by a period up to six month programme depending on the skills and competencies required for the role. Throughout the probation period performance and competence is assessed within a supportive and developmental context; during induction staff receive core mandatory training and also have the opportunity to shadow staff members in the homes of people supported. A record of the induction provided to staff is maintained; records examined provided evidence of a comprehensive induction programme. Staff are provided with a staff handbook and has access to Positive Future's policies and procedures.

The agency's policy and procedures for staff supervision and appraisal outline the frequencies and processes to be followed. Staff confirmed they received ongoing supervision and annual staff appraisal.

Records of staff training were retained. Training included mandatory training in keeping with RQIA guidelines. Additional professional development training is provided as required.

All care staff employed are registered with Northern Ireland Social Care Council.

Is Care Effective?

Discussions with the manager, staff and persons supported indicated that an appropriate number of suitably skilled and experienced staff are available at all times. Staff rota information viewed reflected staffing levels as described by the manager. The manager described the process to ensure that staff provided have the knowledge, skills and training to carry out the requirements of their job role.

Staff confirmed they were provided with a job description outlining the roles and responsibilities of individual job roles prior to commencement of employment. Staff could describe their roles and responsibilities and the process for reporting any training needs.

Staff could describe the detail of the induction programme received and stated that they felt equipped to fulfil the requirements of their role. Induction information viewed indicated that an initial induction programme is undertaken by staff; however, the full induction process is completed over a period of six months. The agency maintains a record of induction which records regular supervision of staff during the induction period.

A training matrix is maintained with mandatory training included. Staff stated that they are encouraged to highlight any concerns during supervision; they stated that they can approach the manager or senior staff at any time.

Person centred supervision policy and procedures (26 June 2012) outline the frequency of supervision and appraisal. It was confirmed that staff providing supervision have received appropriate training. Staff confirmed they receive bi-monthly supervision and annual appraisal.

Staff could describe the process for highlighting concerns and were aware of the agency's Whistleblowing policy (17 September 2014).

Is Care Compassionate?

The manager stated that staffing arrangements and any issues or concerns raised by people supported are discussed with people supported at meetings.

People supported are provided with detail of staff being provided by the agency to support them; one person supported who spoke to the inspector stated that they are introduced to new staff. Agency staff could describe the impact of staff changes on people supported and the benefits in providing continuity of care. The manager stated that the agency endeavours to provide continuity of staff to people supported.

Induction and training records indicated that staff receive training specific to the needs of individual service users. Staff stated that they had the appropriate knowledge and skills to fulfil the requirements of their role. Persons supported indicated that staff supplied has the knowledge and skills to provide the required care and support to meet their needs.

Staff described the process for meeting the people supported and becoming familiar with their needs; they described the importance of respecting the privacy, dignity and choices of people supported. One person supported who spoke with the inspector confirmed that staff always respects their privacy, wishes and dignity.

The agency's disciplinary policy and procedures outlines the process for addressing unsatisfactory performance of staff.

Nine staff and five people supported satisfaction questionnaires completed and returned to RQIA confirmed that respondents were satisfied that the care provided was safe, effective and compassionate.

5.4 Theme 2: Service User Involvement - service users are involved in the care they receive

Is Care Safe?

The registered manager stated that prior to providing care to individual people supported the agency receives a range of multi-disciplinary assessments from the referring HSC trust. Assessments of need and risk assessments viewed reflected the views and choices of service users and where appropriate their representatives. Person centred care support plans are developed with the person supported and/or their representative.

Persons supported who spoke to the inspector stated that they are involved in developing their care and support plans; they stated that they are encouraged to express their views and that they can choose the care they receive.

Staff could describe the benefits of positive risk taking and their role in supporting people supported to live as full a life as possible; they could describe a range of positive risks that people are supported to take. Risk assessments are completed in conjunction with people supported and their representatives.

Is Care Effective?

People supported and where appropriate their relatives are encouraged to participate in an annual review of their care and support involving representatives for the HSC trust. Staff record the care and support provided and care plans are reviewed following the annual review or as required; People supported stated that they meet with their keyworker regularly to discuss their care needs. Care and support plans viewed detail the wishes and routines of service users and contain information specific to individual person supported.

The agency facilitates monthly people support house meetings; records of meetings viewed indicate that people supported where appropriate are encouraged to express their views and opinions and that their wishes and choices are respected. The manager described instances where it is necessary to liaise with relatives of people supported when service users are unable to contribute their views and opinions. People supported and their relatives are informed of the agency's complaints procedure; the agency has a process for maintaining a record of all compliments and complaints. Monthly monitoring visits are completed; documentation viewed indicates engagement with people supported.

The agency undertakes an annual survey regarding the service provided with stakeholders including people supported, representatives and commissioning trusts. Analysis is reflected within the report

The agency holds Human Rights Booklets which were readily available to staff, people supported and representatives. Easy read pictorial formats are available.

Is Care Compassionate?

Discussions with staff and people supported indicate that care is provided in an individualised manner. Care plans viewed were written in a person centred manner and persons supported confirmed that they are consulted about the care they receive; they stated that they can refuse any aspect of their care and support; they could describe the agreed care and support that they receive from the agency's staff.

Staff described the agency's process for engaging with people supported and their representatives where appropriate. Staff described examples of responding to people supported wishes; records of house meetings indicated the involvement of people supported and where appropriate their representatives.

Promotion of values such as dignity, choice and respect were evident through discussion with staff and people supported. It was noted that the agency provides people supported with information on human rights in an appropriate format.

The manager could describe the process of liaising with the HSCT and relatives regarding best interest practices for people supported who are identified as having capacity issues.

Five people supported completed and returned satisfaction questionnaires to RQIA. All respondents indicated they were very satisfied that their views and opinions are sought about the quality of the service and that the care and support received was very satisfactory.
